

The Department of

Sociology and Social Anthropology and Romani Studies Program

cordially invite you to

Racial Cities: The Segregation of Roma in Urban Europe

A panel discussion organized by

Angela Kocze and Judit Bodnar

Date and Time: Thursday, October 5 at 16:00

Venue: Monument Building, Gellner room

Introduction: Judit Bodnar, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology

Exposition: Giovanni Picker, University of Birmingham, School of Social Policy, author of Racial Cities: Governance and the Segregation of Romani People in Urban Europe, Routledge, 2017

How does race and class intersect in structuring 21st-century European urban spaces? How to study these varied and variable intersections? Starting from a multi-focal ethnography of urban governance and the segregation of Roma, the discussion will address these questions from a global perspective.

Discussion:

Angela Kocze, Assistant Professor of Romani Studies and Academic Director, RGPP

Daniel Monterescu, Associate Professor of Sociology and Social Anthropology